Stumbras Organic Vodka

The first organic vodka made in Lithuania, Stumbras Organic Vodka is produced according to a certified and strictly controlled production process. Grain spirit made from wheat grown on an organic farm, deep subsurface water and filtration through linen filter – a technique new to Lithuania – give Stumbras Organic Vodka its unique and exceptionally smooth taste.

Probably the most traditional vodka in our collection, STUMBRAS VODKA Rye was first produced in 1841 and dates back to the times when there were 1,260 state vodka and spirit factories operating in Lithuania. Back then, rye was considered to be the best raw material to distil, and that is what gives this vodka its characteristic taste of fresh bread.

STUMBRAS RYE VODKA

When enjoying STUMBRAS VODKA Rye, freeze it until it is viscous and then pour it into a frosted shot glass. Let the glass warm a bit to watch as it emits an icy vapor from the warmth of your hand. Take a sip, but don't swallow it immediately – let your tongue feel the burning cold and wait a moment for the subtleties of its flavor to unfold.

This vodka has, most likely, remained unchanged since 1906, which is when grain vodka began to be produced in Kaunas using classical production methods.

STUMBRAS VODKA Classic embodies the tradition and mastery of vodka distillers, which is why it is valued by those who enjoy a classic taste. It has a mild flavor, with a barely perceptible wheat aroma.

This is likely the same vodka that was being distilled in Lithuania back in 1921, when the country was recovering and 25 distilleries used to buy so many potatoes that there would sometimes be shortages and they would have to import them from abroad. Compared with other types of vodka, it takes three times more raw materials and time to produce potato vodka, which is why it is fairly rare. However, the result is definitely worth the effort: STUMBRAS VODKA Potato has a taste that is impossible to confuse with any other – it is distinctive, a bit thick in consistency, and slightly sweet.
